

Dear Theatregoer,

Congratulations to Yvonne James who won two tickets to our next show
Through A Glass Darkly by entering our Spring Prize Draw

Summer Production 22 – 25 June 2011

THROUGH A GLASS DARKLY
by INGMAR BERGMAN
adapted for the stage by JENNY WORTON

"... a strange, haunting theatrical power"
THE GUARDIAN

"... profoundly moving"
THE TELEGRAPH

Karin is a young wife, an older sister and an only daughter. In her kaleidoscopic internal world the boundaries between different realities blur and shift. Poignant and sensuous, this is the only adaptation of the 1961 film to be personally approved by Bergman himself. Adapted by Jenny Worton, it received its world première at the Almeida Theatre, London, in 2010.

Directed by Bill Brennan, Through A Glass Darkly will be performed by Carrie Baker, Damian Jennings, Phil McCumskey and Benjamin Sunderland.

All performances are at the Chapel Barn, South Stoke, near Arundel at 8.00pm.

Tickets: Wednesday – Thursday £9.00 (£5.00 students)

Friday and Saturday £10.00 (no concessions)

available in advance from the Arundel Information Centre, Crown Yard, Arundel

Telephone 01903 882268

Through A Glass Darkly is sponsored by Pallant of Arundel and your ticket price includes a selection of delicious Summer treats and the opportunity to purchase some refreshing cordials, beer and wine from their cellars.

Why not have them prepare you a picnic hamper to enjoy in the idyllic South Stoke countryside before the performance by telephoning 01903 882288, e-mailing info@pallantofarundel.co.uk or popping into their shop on the Square in Arundel.
